

Editor's session Hospitality & Society

Peter Lugosi

Peter is a Professor at the Oxford School of Hospitality Management, Oxford Brookes University. His interdisciplinary work on hospitality tries to expand understanding of its principles, refine its management practices, and extend its applications. He has researched and published on consumer experiences and customer experience management, hospitality and urban transformation, migration and migrant labour, entrepreneurship, organisational culture, parenting, and qualitative research methods. Peter co-founded the Hospitality & Society journal and he is currently a Co-Editor.