	and didactic concept; Intake; Quality of Staff; Number of Staff; Available facilities, and Level realized. This implies for example that the ratio of staff to students at HTH is higher than at most larger institutes of higher education, that the learning goals are more ambitious and that we have a sound selection procedure in place. Based on this distinctive feature, Hotelschool The Hague is allowed to charge an additional tuition fee. Tuition fees for 2020-2021 are set at € 3,500 for all students except for non-EEA (European Economic Area*) students. Payment in instalments is possible for EEA-students who have their own bank account in the Netherlands.
b) Summer course fees / Tuition fees	These fees include non-subsidisable expenses, such as expenses for an accident and liability insurance and the maintenance of the high-quality international network, e.g. reputable placement companies. Due to this contribution the restaurants can also offer prices that are below the market price. Students pay a contribution for non-subsidised costs of the practicals, such as official internal events for placement students and the graduation ceremony. The fee for the summer course includes meals.

Please note: there are some variable additional costs:

Computer/laptop	Although the school provides excellent computer facilities, we do advise students to purchase a laptop. Each student can log on to the school computer network by using their personal username & password as assigned by the IT Department. Throughout the school and at the Skotel rooms there are also wireless access points where you can connect to the Internet via your own laptop, mobile phone etc. using the 'HDH-HotSpot'. Please make sure you have a suitable portable device and either using a normal network cable (utp patch cable) or WiFi.
Books	Books can be bought from the school's supplier. Other lesson materials consist mainly of a course guide that contains important information for each course, such as the number of EC's it provides, who the lecturers are, etc. Workbooks and manuals provide additional reading material to supplement the books. These course materials are available free of charge on the school's intranet: www.myhotelschool.nl
